

Faculty of Pharmacy, Integral University Observed 'Anti Ragging Week, 2025'

Report on “Anti-Ragging Week” –Skit Play (12th -18th August, 2025)

At Integral University, Lucknow, the Faculty of Pharmacy organized an Anti-Ragging Week event that included a poster-making competition and a skit play, with strong involvement from faculty members Dr. Ahsan Ahmad Khan, Dr. Asad Ahmad, Ms. Shaban Khatoun, Dr. Aftab Ahmad, and Mr. Ranjan Kumar. The aim was to sensitise students about the physical, emotional, and legal consequences of ragging, reinforce the university’s zero-tolerance stance, and encourage peer support and responsibility.

Skit Play:

The Skit Play effectively conveyed the serious consequences of ragging through engaging real-life scenarios performed by students. The participants portrayed situations that demonstrated the emotional and psychological impact of ragging and emphasized the importance of speaking up, supporting victims, and reporting incidents responsibly. Guided by faculty members, the performance was followed by an interactive discussion where students reflected on the message, shared their views, and gained a deeper understanding of their role in fostering a ragging-free campus.

The event aligned with Sustainable Development Goal 3 (Good Health and Well-Being) by addressing psychological wellbeing and the harms caused by ragging; with SDG 4 (Quality Education) by promoting an educational environment based on safety, respect, and inclusion; and with SDG 16 (Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions) by reinforcing institutional policies, justice, and rule of law, and encouraging transparent mechanisms for protection and reporting. The active participation of both faculty and students underlined that maintaining a ragging-free campus is a shared responsibility. The event was successfully coordinated by the Head of the Faculty of Pharmacy, ensuring active participation and effective communication of the department’s vision for a ragging-free campus.
